PROFILE

I am an emerging Software Developer with hands-on experience developing games and interactive applications for VR, AR, WebGL, and PC. With a background in both programming and 3D art, I bring a versatile skill set that spans frontend and backend functionality. My professional work includes contributing to large-scale VR projects, indie game development, and creating stylized 3D assets. I am proficient in Unity (C#) and experienced with Git version control, and I thrive in collaborative environments working closely with developers and artists to deliver engaging, polished experiences.
